CAPE ANN MUSEUM

Dear Friends,

It is with great pleasure that we report on the past year's accomplishments and the progress of the Museum's transformation.

The headline of 2013 is, of course, the extraordinary success of our Capital Campaign, Reaching Out, Strengthening Within. Thanks to you, we are pleased to announce that we have reached our $5 million goal.

What is especially gratifying about the results is the broad-based nature of the support we have received:

- 250+ individual donors have pledged $5,050,000
- 11 national and local foundations made grants totaling more than $500,000
- 25 businesses have almost doubled the $50,000 challenge grant made by Gorton's

And, at this writing, the community at large is continuing its support. We are truly grateful to all of you for your patience, your enthusiasm and your commitment to helping us become one of the best small museums in the country.

Last year, we set out to Strengthen Within – to be responsible stewards by caring for our existing facilities with improvements in environmental systems, fire prevention, security and lighting – enhancements that benefit both the collection and our visitors.

The construction phase is nearly complete and one can already see how the new design will allow us to significantly improve not only how we display and safeguard the art and artifacts entrusted to us, but also how it will enliven and integrate the multiple narratives of this remarkable place.

Here are some highlights:

- Walker Hancock's sculpture, Air, is the centerpiece of the new Central Gallery. An historic "balloon" map of Cape Ann (1879) will orient visitors to the area and to the Museum, while selected works from the collection illuminate these major themes: the place, the people, the industry and art.
- The 1892 Gloucester waterfront diorama, reconfigured by maritime historian and ship model maker Erik Ronnberg, Jr. will be installed in the center of the new Cape Ann Gallery giving visitors a 360 degree view of the historic model. This gallery will provide visitors with the social, economic, industrial and artistic context for all the collections – a visual timeline with representative art and artifacts closely associated with the history of Cape Ann and its people.

- The completely re-imagined Fitz Henry Lane Gallery will provide a more comprehensive and cohesive understanding of Lane's life and work. Three period rooms will illustrate how Lane's works might have been displayed by their original owners.
- The Fresnel lens from Rockport's Thacher Island, standing an impressive 13 feet high, introduces and anchors our maritime collection.
- The new Folly Cove Designers Gallery will provide a permanent showcase for one of the original presses and the textiles created by these resourceful Cape Ann women and men.

Although the Museum was under construction for the last quarter of the year, this did not interrupt our programming. Reaching Out is a fitting theme for our educational events during 2013.

- We showcased the works of local artists and artisans with a tribute to the Cape Ann Artisans at 30 who have opened their studios to the public twice a year for three decades.
- James Woodward and his team, among the last "lampists" working in the U.S. today, continued their efforts on Cape Ann with the conservation and installation of the Thacher Island Fresnel Lens here at the Museum. A series of related programs was presented in collaboration with the Thacher Island Association.
- We offered a look inside the lives of an intimate circle of modernist sculptors, lithographers, painters, photographers, poets and writers – Albert Alcalay, Doris Hall, Helen Stein, Tom O'Hara, Nell Blaine, Mary Shore, Vincent Ferrini, and others – who called Rocky Neck home during the post-WWII years.
- In collaboration with the Gloucester Writers Center and the Charles Olson Society, we presented a talk by Amiri Baraka as part of the Charles Olson Lecture Series, and with the Rocky Neck Art Colony we hosted a talk by artist and master teacher, Barbara Moody.

We opened the doors to school children, teachers and the community.

• As part of our Saturday Showcase series we offered: a family-friendly concert event featuring Robert J. Bradshaw's "Katy and the Big Snow," based on Virginia Lee Burton's classic children's story presented by the Beauport Chamber Players with a discussion about how Burton's book was translated into music.

- We conducted 39 Young at Art classes for Head Start reaching 647 students and teachers, and led 26 school tours of the Museum for 934 students from our surrounding communities.
- Funded and initiated by the Gloucester Education Foundation and the Gloucester Public Schools, we launched Artistic Bridges, a program which brings working artists into the classrooms of public school teachers and students.
- Children and adults tried their hand at block printing mastered by the Folly Cove Designers, after a demonstration by Mary Rhinelander.
- Our Fall Festival featured colorful and heartwarming Gloucester neighborhood quilts made by Juni Van Dyke's art classes at the Rose Baker Senior Center.
- We explored historical, artistic and maritime themes based on the Museum's collection with residents of numerous nursing homes and day care programs as part of our CAM Connections outreach.

The Museum is scheduled to reopen with a Gala Celebration on August 16, followed by a week of very special activities for members and friends: Live music, customized tours throughout the week, a Member's Reception on Thursday evening, August 21, followed by free admission to all Cape Ann residents on the weekend of August 23 and 24. We hope you will join us – every day.

With redesigned spaces and a reinstalled collection, we will tell the story of Cape Ann that residents and visitors will be proud of, that will inspire this and future generations to continue the tradition of creativity, invention and expression of the human spirit that are the hallmarks of this singular place.

Once again, we thank all of you who believed in our vision for the future. Your support and your continuing commitment to our mission sustained us during this year of change and renewal.

We look forward to welcoming you inside your new Cape Ann Museum.

Sincerely,

COLLECTIONS CONSERVATION PROJECTS

Preservation of the Museum's holdings is central to the organization's mission. During 2013, we were pleased to be able to move ahead with several important projects, most of which were made possible through generous support from outside funders.

WHITE-ELLERY HOUSE

The initial phase of stabilization work on the windows of the historic White-Ellery House (1710) was successfully completed under the supervision of contractor Steve Goodick. Funding support was provided by the City of Gloucester's Community Preservation Act Grant Program, the Bruce J. Anderson Foundation, the Society of the Colonial Wars in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the National Office of the Society of Colonial Wars.

Steve Goodick of W. Herbert Goodick, Inc. makes final adjustments to the new windows at the White-Ellery House.

FRESNEL LENS

A team of three lampists successfully completed the first stage of conservation work on the 1861 First Order Fresnel lens once used in the south lighthouse tower on Thacher Island and now at the Cape Ann Museum. In 2014, the lens will be united with its original base and installed in a new exhibition gallery within the Museum. We are grateful to the more than 150 individuals and foundations who have provided support for this project over the last few years, including the Bruce J. Anderson Foundation, the City of Gloucester's and the town of Rockport's Community Preservation Act Grant Programs, Linzee Coolidge and the Dusky Foundation, Ian and Josie Gardiner and the Humane Society of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Paul Lohnes and the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, the Manton Foundation and Arthur Ryan.

FITZ HENRY LANE ONLINE PROJECT

An intriguing find in the Museum's archives is a version of Lane's 1855 lithograph View of Gloucester that shows compelling evidence of being hand painted by Lane himself. Lane did three lithograph views of Gloucester in the years 1836, 1846 and 1855. We know that the 1846 print was offered hand colored by Lane for an additional 25 cents. Yet none of any version are currently known.

It was a common practice to handcolor over black and white lithographs, usually in watercolor, often by the print seller long after they were made. Color was broadly applied and obscured the subtlety of the tonal gradation and contrast of a master lithographer such as Lane.

The painting on this version is unlike any we've seen. The image area is covered in an earth tone wash, very similar to Lane's ground color for his oils. The white highlights of selected buildings and sails are overpainted in oil making them jump forward. The sky is painted in thin oil washes over the darker ground evoking a dense, humid atmosphere. The cloud shadow has been moved to the center, and focuses the eye on the white church steeple and large ship. The floating buoy line has been shortened to line up under the mast of the schooner. Foreground grasses and rocks, distant wharf pilings and rigging details are all meticulously painted and, amidst the jumble of downtown buildings, the tiny gables of Lane's house have been outlined in white.

The attention to detail and the reworking of tonal and compositional elements go far beyond the wash-like coloring of Lane lithographs we regularly see. Yet attribution often rests on provenance. This work and the Lane drawings came from Samuel Mansfield via Joseph Stevens, Lane's great friend and patron. Stevens' ownership, likely a gift from Lane, is the most convincing evidence that this is an original and masterful work by Lane.

Work on the Lane Catalogue Raisonné is ongoing. We hope to launch the first phase of the Project in Spring 2015. We are grateful to the Wyeth Foundation, Danversbank Charitable Foundation and the John H. and H. Naomi Tomfohrde Foundation for their support.

COMMUNITY COLLABORATIONS

PROGRAMS AND EDUCATION

The Museum's annual program calendar is designed to complement its collections and special exhibitions. Lectures, gallery talks, poetry readings, artist demonstrations, walking tours, film screenings and musical performances provide insight into the art, history and culture of Cape Ann. Program participation and the number of collaborative programs remained strong in 2013 as we offered offsite programs after closing in October.

THE NUMBERS

- The total number of classes and programs offered to adults and children was 186, and the total number of people who participated in these offerings was 7,600.
- In 2013, more than 4,300 adults participated in 70 educational and outreach programs offered by the Museum.
- 1,323 visitors were introduced to the Museum and its collections through 287 docent-led tours.
- 3,200 children and families participated in more than 100 programs designed specifically for them.
- Students from more than 30 local schools displayed outstanding student artwork throughout the year in the Museum.

THE HIGHLIGHTS

In 2013, members and visitors enjoyed Cape Ann Artisan demonstrations and workshops, the summer courtyard concert series, lighthouse and lens lectures, gallery talks with artists and writers, studio visits, two CAM*afterhours* evenings of sound installations and an intimate artist conversation, walking tours exploring the neighborhood and a new film series offered in partnership with Cape Ann Community Cinema.

We continued our collaborative efforts partnering with other organizations and individuals throughout the year to offer the Distinguished Artist/Teacher, Goetemann Artist in Residency lecture with Rocky Neck Art Colony featuring Barbara Moody; The Charles Olson Lecture Series featuring Amiri Baraka, in partnership with the Charles Olson Society and the Gloucester Writers Center; the Schooner Festival with Maritime Gloucester and the annual Middle Street Walk with various community organizations. We also continued our on-going work with area homes for the elderly and senior centers through our CAM Connections program, sponsored by Mass Humanities, and the Llewellyn and Forest Foundations.

Also of note was the completion of our third docent training program which increased our total number of volunteer Associates to thirty-two.

YOUTH AND FAMILY PROGRAMS

The Museum was pleased to offer a series of programs in 2013 designed especially for children and their families, including the following:

- Three memorable Saturday Showcase events sponsored by the Goldhirsh Foundation: Katy and the Big Snow with Cape Ann Symphony; Celebration of children's book author Frances Wosmek; and a book reading and sing along with Daisy Nell and Captain Stan.
- Second Saturdays Family Fun Free Days, sponsored by the Tower Foundation, brought 700 children and families into the Museum, many for the first time.
- Young at Art for Head Start sponsored by the McCarthy Family Foundation – a special program which welcomed more than 30 visits from students in Cape Ann's Pathways for Children.
- The launch of the pilot program Artistic Bridges in collaboration with the Gloucester Education Foundation and the Gloucester Public Schools designed to bring artists into core curriculum classrooms.

The Museum also welcomed students from local and international schools, preschool-aged through college, and participated in the following community-wide events: Gloucester Public Schools Arts Festival, the Cape Ann Family Fun Fair and the Cape Ann Farmers' Market. The Museum is committed to offering collaborative programs in partnership with local educational, cultural and civic organizations to contribute to the cultural vitality of our communities.

2013 highlights include the Museum playing leadership roles in the Gloucester Education Foundation's Public School Arts Festival, the annual Middle Street Walk, the development of the HarborWalk and the Downtown Cultural District designation. The success of these initiatives results in a stronger appreciation of the region's cultural assets. Please see a complete list of our collaborations in the adjacent Programs and Education Report.

Funding for these programs was made possible through a grant from the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, which promotes excellence, access, education and diversity in the arts, humanities and interpretive sciences, in order to improve the quality of life for all Massachusetts residents and to contribute to the economic vitality of our communities.

> and the Sawyer Free Library to learn about Gloucester's history and its people. He immersed himself in the Cape Ann community in a wide range of other activities: joining the Unitarian Universalist Church, reading poetry at the Gloucester Writers Center, volunteering at Pathways for Children, and participating in three separate book groups.

> David's life was marked by tragedy: his second son Matthew died in 2001 at the age of 20; his wife Gail died in January 2012, and David himself had been badly injured in an automobile accident years before that left him limping and in pain from a shattered hip. Not long after his docent training was completed in spring of 2013, David's health problems began to multiply. Just as he prepared to have surgery on his hip, he was diagnosed with cancer, and on December 5 he died at the age of 65.

> David would have been a huge asset to the Museum. His radiant smile, his boundless enthusiasm, his natural abilities as a teacher (at least two of his Northfield Mount Hermon students rated him "awesome" on teacher evaluation forms), and his endless curiosity made it a particular pleasure to deal with him as a friend, a colleague, and a teacher. A conversation with David – for anyone, on almost any topic – was an inspiring learning process.

> David's untimely death was a great loss to the Cape Ann Museum, and to the entire Cape Ann Community.

- Tom Halsted, friend and fellow Associate

DAVID DEMAINE

David Demaine was one of the two dozen associates who signed up for the 15-month docent training course in 2012. He was a newcomer to Gloucester: a retired classics teacher from the School who had moved with his wife and fellow teacher Gail to Magnolia barely two years earlier.

He plunged enthusiasti-

ing program, spending

cally into the docent train-

hours in the CAM archives

Northfield Mount Hermon

ALFRED MANSFIELD BROOKS SOCIETY

Alfred Mansfield Brooks (1870-1963), long time president and curator of the Cape Ann Museum, was responsible for assembling what would ultimately become the largest and finest collection of works by marine artist Fitz Henry Lane (1804-1865). Today, the Museum's Lane Collection includes over 40 oil paintings and more than 100 pencil drawings. The fact that such a comprehensive group of works has remained in the artist's hometown is remarkable, a testament to Brooks' vision and foresight.

The Alfred Mansfield Brooks Society was established in 2009 to honor the generosity of Robert L. and Elizabeth French and their gifts to the Museum's collection and to serve as an acknowledgement of gratitude to the long line of donors who have shaped the Museum's collection. The Society recognizes those who have made donations of art or artifacts to the Museum, who have pledged a future gift, or who have provided funds for the purchase or conservation of such at a minimum of $10,000 on or after September 2009.

IN MEMORY

BARBARA ERKKILA (1918–2013)

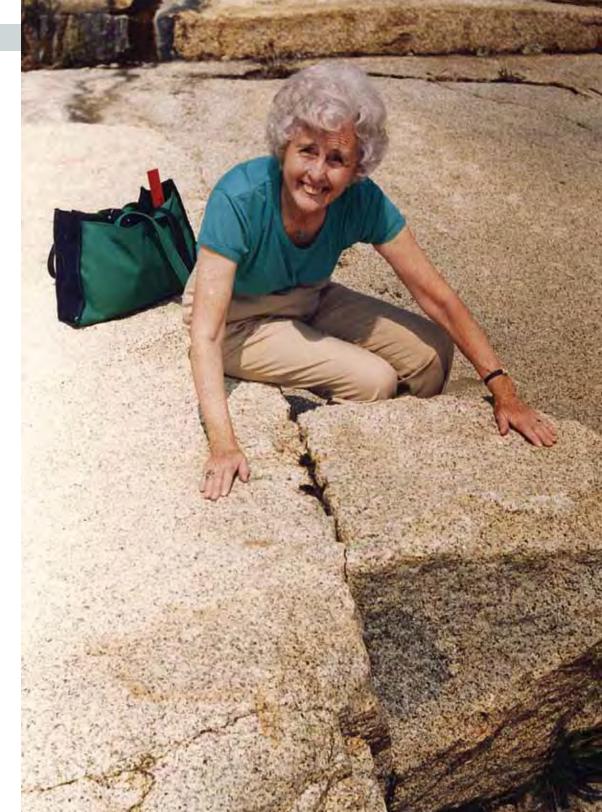

In the early 1990s, Barbara began laying the groundwork for donating her extensive collection of granite related tools, photographs, documents and ephemera to the Cape Ann Museum. In 1994 the collection started to come in, a process that went on through 1997. Every item that Barbara brought to the Museum came with a written description including provenance and, if the item was a tool, an overview of how it was used in the granite quarrying process. Barbara's attention to detail was amazing and her documentation of the collection adds immeasurably to the importance and value of her gift. Knowing who originally owned and used a blacksmith's chest, a pair of safety glasses, a tool box full of hammers and chisels has opened all sorts of doors for the Museum, allowing us to explore in detail the lives and accomplishments of the men and women who made up Cape Ann's granite industry.

In the nearly 20 years since Barbara selected the Cape Ann Museum to be the repository for her collection, other donors have followed her example donating additional items to our holdings. Today, the Museum is proud to have one of the strongest collections of granite quarrying materials in New England.

For many years, Barbara served as an advisor to the Cape Ann Museum's Collections Committee. With her vast knowledge of all aspects of local history, she was a valuable and much appreciated asset to that group.
