Welcome

Dear Friends,

Thanks to your collective support, the Cape Ann Museum has continued to innovate during this past year. This report looks back specifically at 2022 and details some of the great initiatives that this Museum was empowered to develop and present thanks to your partnership and that of this community.

This report explores robust collections initiatives as well as a new commitment to education and community offerings. The 2022/23 school year saw the introduction of a dynamic new K-12 Education engagement program, with Museum educators bringing students from across Cape Ann into the galleries and providing in-classroom opportunities to inspire and learn about Cape Ann as a singularly unique and inspiring place as well.

This is a dynamic time for the Cape Ann Museum – brimming with new plans and opportunities. We thank you for the ongoing patronage that enables the Museum to continue finding new ways to serve – and celebrate – our community and its heritage.

Sincerely,

Oliver Barker, Director

Henrietta Gates, Board Chair

New Acquisitions

Baggywrinkles Return to Gloucester

While the collections of the Cape Ann Museum are vast and remarkable, over the decades, some things which should have been preserved and enjoyed here on Cape Ann have slipped away, ending up in other museums and private collections across the country. On occasion, things come back, much to the amazement and pleasure of everyone. Earlier this year, the Museum staff was pleased to welcome home a set of baggywrinkles that were made in Gloucester in 1883, left the area shortly thereafter bound for the collection of U. S. Fish Commission, and have now been transferred from the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History to the collection of the Cape Ann Museum.

Throughout the 19th century and into the 20th, practically all the gear needed for Gloucester schooners engaged in the offshore fishing industry was made right here, from anchors and sails, to wooden boxes to pack salted fish in, hoops to lash sails to the masts of schooners, and fog horns to be used on the fishing banks.

Included on the list were baggywrinkles which were made of hemp, line, metal and canvas and used to prevent sails from chaffing on spars and rigging. They would have been ubiquitous around Gloucester's waterfront during the great age of sail, part of the standard rigging on most vessels working out of the port. Although the Cape Ann Museum began taking in examples of fishing gear and related supplies in the 1930s, and even though our collection includes many rare artifacts, until this year it lacked any examples of baggywrinkles. Now, thanks to the forethought and generosity of the Smithsonian staff, and in particular Paul Johnston, Curator of Maritime History at the National Museum of American History, we are pleased to have 140-year-old examples of the gear to share with visitors. ■

Fore-Boom Band Mat. 1883. Spun yarn with tarred houseline. Used on the fore-boom of a fishing schooner to prevent the foot of the foresail from chaffing. Transferred from the Smithsonian's Museum of American History to the Cape Ann Museum, 2023.

New Acquisitions

Lawrence Fane

Over the course of the past year-and-a-half, the collection of the Cape Ann Museum has continued to grow in important ways thanks to the generosity of many individuals and families. Gifts have spanned all branches of the collection and together enhance our ability to explore the cultural richness of this area in creative and engaging ways. The Museum was particularly pleased to receive donations of works by 20th century and contemporary artists including works by sculptor Lawrence Fane (1933-2008).

Known for his work incorporating steel, bronze, concrete and wood, Fane was born in St. Louis and educated at Harvard. He studied art at the Boston Museum School and served as apprentice to sculptor George Demetrios in Boston and here on Cape Ann. Fane also studied at the American Academy in Rome for three years. Time spent working in Gloucester and Rockport led to friendships not only with the Demetrios family but also with other artists living and working in the area including Bernard Chaet and Ninon Lacey. Through the generosity of the Fane family, the Museum recently received a collection of sketches done by the artist in this area and the 1985 wall-hung sculpture, Folly Cove, which is made of carved wood and was inspired by the distinctive shelving granite landscape of Gloucester's Folly Cove neighborhood. ■

Collections Fund for Future Acquisitions

The Cape Ann Museum is fortunate to maintain a Collections Fund to be used for the purchase of artwork, artifacts and archival materials for the collection, and for the conservation of objects in our holdings. The fund has proven invaluable over the years, allowing the Museum to purchase art and artifacts that are not available to us through donation. The fund has also made it possible for the Museum to have selected objects from all branches of the collection undergo professional conservation treatment, assuring their long-term preservation and enhancing our ability to share our vast holdings with the public. The Museum is eager to strengthen its Collections Fund to help the institution meet its mission as we move towards the 150th anniversary of its founding, an occasion we will celebrate in 2025.

In recent years, turning to the Collections Fund and to generous members of the Museum community, we have been able to acquire a handful of key items including Paul Manship's bronze Tortoise, modeled in 1916 and cast in 1998; and a suite of landscape drawings done by contemporary artist Adin Murray. We have also been able to conserve numerous objects from the collection including an 1890 lithographic view of the exterior of Gloucester's St. Ann's Church and surrounding buildings; and an 1881 railroad map of Cape Ann and the North Shore. In 2022, the Collections Fund was used to undertake conservation work on Triton, a bronze fountain created by Walker Hancock that we hope to install outside our Pleasant Street headquarters. The fund was also turned to purchase at auction an 1885 oil painting of Good Harbor Beach done by Clement Drew.

To learn more about the Museum's Collections Fund and help the organization further strengthen its holdings, please reach out to either the Development or Collections teams. ■

Community Engagement

Signature Programs

Four signature festivals over the course of 2022 celebrated growing partnerships between the Cape Ann Museum and the surrounding community. They included: Gloucester's So Salty, a two-day ice-sculpture festival in January; the Gloucester Juneteenth Festival & Celebration; Brazilian Independence Day Celebration; and Indigenous Heritage Day. These four events drew a combined audience of 1,981 visitors over the course of the year.

It's an exciting time for CAM, brimming with new plans and opportunities.

In addition to these festivals, the Museum also offered free admission through several ongoing community programs: Second Saturdays for Cape Ann Residents; Courtyard Concerts on Thursday nights in July and August; First Fridays: Art After Hours from October 2022 – June 2023.

The community programs were complimented by over 30 CAMTalks with 1,576 visitors celebrating the social, artistic, and cultural history of Cape Ann. These talks covered a wide variety of important topics from Dogtown to Indigenous Archaeology to Artist Colonies to the Folly Cove Designers. ■

Education

School Programs

In 2022, the Cape Ann Museum engaged 3,850 visitors through 131 Family & School programs. This represented a significant return to pre-pandemic numbers, especially for school engagement.

Central to the Museum's school outreach were two signature exhibitions: A View From My Window: Cape Ann Eighth Grade Exhibition and Our Place; Our Stories: Cape Ann Third Grade Exhibition. In preparation for these student exhibits in the spring of 2023, CAM Educators visited every 3rd and 8th grade classroom in public schools on Cape Ann, reaching over 675 students with two visits each between October 2022 and March 2023. The artwork that was on display in the Museum's Downtown galleries was created through 75 classroom visits and 1,305 student interactions. As one student captured:

I drew the view from O'Maley across the marsh because I feel like this view is iconic to all the students at O'Maley. I was excited to be a part of the exhibit and I wanted to demonstrate my view of Gloucester.

Joey Porcello, O'Maley Innovation Middle School

Docents & Volunteers

CAM Docent & Volunteer Programs

In 2022, the CAM Docent Program benefited from having 55 members who facilitated Highlights Tours, Walking Tours, and Historic House Tours at the Cape Ann Museum. These invaluable volunteers are a fundamental element of providing information to visitors. By the end of 2022, the CAM Docent program, which started in 2008, offered 3,500 tours engaging over 21,000 people about Cape Ann as a singularly unique and inspiring place.

A team of 34 Volunteers and Interns worked on a wide range of projects for the Library & Archives, including digitizing material, processing archival collections, cataloging books, organizing and inventorying map collections, raising funds through books sales, presenting on collection highlights, and much more. Most recently, this team provided integral support in preparation for the exhibit Above the Fold: The Photographers of the "Gloucester Daily Times," 1973-2005. ■
